

1. We try to call the login page using the rest service and this is how it looks.

2. We enter the username and password and click on submit.

3. Username is stored in local cache memory and is displayed later.

